PRESENTATION

DEAR INCOMING EXCHANGEES TO BOLIVIA:

This booklet contains details of ICYE's projects in Bolivia. You will find details only of the projects we work with every year, however, we have more projects available that you may choose once you arrive. Also, at the end of the document you'll find the PREFERENCE LIST form, please fill this form completely (in English or Spanish), and return it to ICYE Bolivia.

We usually wait for our exchangeees to arrive, to meet their families and to attend the first conference before assigning them a project. Prior to this, we prefer to explain to them our social reality: how state institutions work, the situation for women in general, the many young workers who live in the streets and what it might mean to work in a project run by religious people or institutions.

Once the Committee has introduced the new exchangeees to these topics, they can express, or remark, their preference and decide in which project they want to work. Projects are usually very enthusiastic about help offered, in whatever form this may be, however they expect foreign volunteers to integrate and, more than ever, to put some serious effort into learning SPANISH.

Your voluntary placement in Bolivia will be your main activity during the year. By working in a social project you will have the unique opportunity to see the 'real Bolivia' either through working with women, children, craftsmen, children with disabilities, homeless people or in the area of human rights.

You will be able to make contact with people in need, understand their problems and get awareness of the problems some Bolivian people face. The work may be very different to the work you've already done, but your enthusiasm, sense of humor and ideas will make your work placement more enjoyable. The key word is attitude.

The exchangeees have to be prepared to potentially different working conditions, such as:

- no timetable: most of the projects don't have a defined structure
- some projects don't have appropriate tools, etc...

Mostly, it is up to exchangeees to find a way to be useful in any project they work at. This will require, as aforementioned, enthusiasm, patience, perseverance and dedication.

Working in the countryside, in a project related with economic and social development, may be possible. This will depend on the Spanish knowledge of the exchangee.

Types of Projects

Below you will find some information on the different projects we currently have available. If the kind of work you want to do isn't listed, don't be too concerned - let us know beforehand the kind of work you would be interested in and we will try to find it for you. There are a many great projects of a diverse nature in Bolivia, and it is likely that we will be able to find a project to match your interests and expectations.

Projects with Children & Teenagers

These projects work with children who have lived in the streets. Children need to be taken to the dentist or the health center, supervised when buying things or making phone calls.

During the week most of the children go to school but the volunteers are then responsible for looking after the children who are too young to go to school or do not go for other reasons.

Exchangees in the past have:

- ✓ Supervised children
- ✓ Supervised the cleaning of the house
- ✓ Helped to cook meals
- ✓ Played games – especially football
- ✓ Participated in group therapy sessions
- ✓ Helped with homework
- ✓ Supervised outings to the park, nature walks, mountains

Working hours are usually 36-40 hours per week, Monday – Friday. Volunteers may work at the weekend if he/she wants.

This type of work is not easy! You will be working with children who have come directly from the streets and their habits may be very different to what you are used to. Basic knowledge of Spanish would be useful, but there is always someone at the project who can explain what words mean.

Development projects

Work here is based on the assistance and training for small businesses, mainly dialing with crafts, who wish to develop technical, financial, industrial, educational and health programs.

Exchangees in the past have:

- ✓ Translated letters from English to Spanish and vice versa
- ✓ Maintained contact with organizations such as Oxfam to supply goods
- ✓ Attended trade fairs and exhibitions
- ✓ Traveled with the organizations to promote products
- ✓ Visit rural communities to acquire products or to deliver workshops on different development issues.

Women

Women's groups in Bolivia are becoming more popular as the contribution of women in society is being recognized. There are a number of organizations which promote the rights of women, offer health and legal advice, and also provide information regarding the development of women.

Human Rights

There are a number of National Organizations which work at the National and Regional level to offer aid and protection for Human rights. The aims of these organizations are to provide trustworthy information about the social problems which are affecting Bolivia today and to promote basic human rights – education for children, the right to live without violence, the right to free speech, adequate health care and working conditions etc. Work opportunities are solely dependent upon your ability to speak Spanish and the work experience you have.

Exchangees in the past have:

- ✓ Offered translation services (Spanish – English)
- ✓ Promoted Human Rights through the distribution of written material and other forms of communication: radio, audiovisual, etc.
- ✓ Designed exhibition panels
- ✓ Attended at public (street) exhibitions
- ✓ Provided research/statistical information

Most Human Rights offices are staffed by volunteers – Lawyers, Writers, Teachers, Doctors and students - who have decided to dedicate some of their time to the advancement of Human Rights in Bolivia. This means that there is always something which needs to be done – answering the telephone, providing information or fund-raising. Your efforts will be appreciated.

Health and Disadvantaged

Exchangees can work in these projects to promote healthy living among low income families. You might be working in hospitals or drug rehabilitation centers with men, women or children.

Hogar de Niños ALALAY
Project Code: BOL- 1	User ID: bolivia
Country:	Bolivia
Location (city,town):	La Paz, Cochabamba and Santa Cruz
Areas of Project:	Children
Aims of project:	Alalay is a non-profit organization, dedicated to helping street children in their reintegration into the society.
Activities of project:	Alalay gives the street children home, board, education, health care, social and psychological assistance. Alalay also helps the children finish school and offers special training for their future. Alalay brings them love and teaches the street children to find their place in society, self-confidence and responsibility. The children come directly from the streets and most are addicted to drugs so the project also helps them to combat their addiction. The Alalay programme has different houses, representing different stages within the reintegration process. In La Paz there are 2 houses, and different stages of development of the children in every house. There is a house only for boys in the downtown, another one in the countryside (Aldeas Alalay).
Community Context:	Children who have family and/or social problems, for example, are addicted to drugs, are homeless or victims of sexual abuse.
Volunteer Requirements:	The volunteers have to be open-minded, with initiative, creativity, patience, and show a lot of affection for the children. They have to be prepared to work in a difficult context and reality because work with former street children can, at times, be difficult. Motivation is very important and some knowledge of Spanish is preferable. Both sexes are possible. If a volunteer is working in Alalay Aldeas (la Paz's countryside), she/he has to live within the project from Monday to Friday.
Volunteer Tasks:	Helping to take care of the children and helping with their homework, sharing the activities and experiences of the children living in the project, preparing workshops on different topics, work on the streets informing children of the project, taking the children to school, hospital, dentist, etc. If the volunteer speaks good Spanish he/she can participate in the therapeutic groups. The project is open to new ideas like painting, carpentry, music, sports or whatever skills the volunteer has.
Hosting Situation:	The project sometimes hosts volunteers but normally they have host families.

Number of Volunteers:	1 or 2 volunteers in each house of the project.

Asociación Artesanal Boliviana "Señor de Mayo"
Project Code: BOL- 12	User ID: Bolivia
Country:	Bolivia
Location (city, town):	City of El Alto, next to La Paz
Areas of Project:	Development, Indigenous, Women.
Aims of project:	Administrative company that is economically viable, socially accepted and ecologically sustainable having as its goals to build a fair and equal market.
Activities of project:	It provides training to all its members so that all have the same opportunities and are able to maintain the quality of their products forming contacts and doing marketing on local and international levels. The members of the association are members of the International Federation of Trade.
Community Context:	The institution has as its associates groups from urban poor areas and rural communities, mostly Aymara and Quechua women. It promotes fair trade.
Volunteer Requirements:	A lot of motivation and energy. The person has to try to learn Spanish the quickest way possible, it would be desirable that he/she had prior knowledge of the language before arrival. Patience is important, especially at the beginning because it is difficult to enter and to understand people.
Volunteer Tasks:	To help with the administration, emails, translations, and computation. The office work is important because the majority of the people working in the project cannot read, write and sometimes not even speak Spanish (only Aymara or Quechua). Other tasks are to visit the production centres which sometimes are located in the rural areas. To participate in meetings, make contacts and promote the organization to foreigners.
Hosting Situation:	Room for the volunteer in the project

CDC - Training and Civil Rights
Project Code: BOL- 36	User ID: Bolivia
Country:	Bolivia
Location (city, town):	Central La Paz and Sopocachi
Areas of Project:	Human rights, vulnerable sectors, legal
Aims of project:	Training and Civil Rights (CDC), is an NGO, founded in 1993 to promote a culture of peace and human rights through providing education to vulnerable sectors of the population such as children and adolescents coming from disadvantaged families and to persons deprived of their liberty. It also provides legal help for these populations. Project provides a yearly legal training programme to students (mainly of law) in public and private universities as well as professional lawyers, to increase their understanding of human rights. These young professionals then carry out legal work in the field, either giving human rights workshops to children, adults, prisoners, police etc., or working on specific legal cases.
Activities of project:	HUMAN RIGHTS TRAINING PROGRAM, JURIDICAL ORIENTATION PROGRAM, JURIDICAL TRAINING PROGRAM
Community Context:	Work with adolescents and students, social and scholastic settings. Adults, primarily women, civil society organisations, penitentiary populations and security guards and the police.
Volunteer Requirements:	The volunteer must be a lawyer, a law student in her/his final year, have experience in this field or have studies in the field of communication or psychology. Some knowledge of Spanish with a view to improving quickly, as will have to understand presentations on legal concepts and engage in public speaking.
Volunteer Tasks:	The volunteering program runs once a year only. Volunteers first study for a period of approximately one month, each day listening to a presentation on a specific legal concept or the work of CDC. After this, the volunteer must complete an exam to be admitted as a CDC volunteer. Upon successful completion, she/he can work within the human rights training program (giving workshops to the groups outlined above) or within the juridical orientation program (working on specific cases) if she/he has knowledge of the Bolivian legal system. In addition, various fairs and activities are held to increase public awareness, in which the volunteer can participate. A highly rewarding project for a volunteer with drive, enthusiasm, sensitivity to legal issues and working Spanish.

Activities of project:	Produce and distribute written and virtual materials for COMPA educators, teachers and directors of the education system of the city of El Alto and train them to acquire strategies and techniques of alternative teaching through arts, according to a comprehensive training plan (pedagogical and artistic training). Maintain the Cultural Centers Houses for children and young in Districts 1, 4 and 6 of El Alto Offer workshops of various forms of arts to promote individual and social ethical values to children and young people enrolled in the cultural centers El Alto. Empower children and young people enrolled in the cultural centers in creating artistic productions to develop their creative skills and imbued with the values promoted by COMPA. Strengthen through artistic and pedagogical strategies the school performance. Institutions of the education system of the city of El Alto are our first partner in meeting our mission of individual transformation with children and youth with the goal of a long-term social change. Participate or organize special events of great magnitude on a municipal, regional and national levels to promote the arts as a tool for transformation / social changes
Community Context:	Needs that warrant intervention In Bolivia, especially in El Alto, there is a high political participation that has managed to transform the national political history. However it is common that the changes have profound limits that do not hold up over time. The oligarchies have always been regenerated by returning to holding power. There is lack of innovative proposals to exercise participation beyond mere protest and lack of practices to build a democratic participatory

	culture, sustained by the protagonists of the daily exercise of these social actions. We believe that art and education can raise with society, new forms of political action, new citizens exercising a democratic culture born in communities (neighborhoods, schools), and with the participation of children and youth. An everyday political practice, committed to the future, which rises in today. The policy must change; participation should explore new paths, finding new ways. We believe this is an urgent basic need. Building the future is a daily and community art. School, politics, community, social transformation. Main Area of intervention: Districts 1, 4 and 6 of the city of El Alto
Volunteer Requirements:	Advanced/ intermediate Spanish level. Ability to work with children and adolescents. Pedagogical skills. Artistic skills (Dance, Brake dance, percussion, visual arts, circus, etc.). Capacity to plan and implement activities without intermediaries.

Fundación Gaia Pacha
Project Code: BOL-88	User ID: Bolivia
Country:	Bolivia
Location (city ,town):	Cochabamba
Areas of Project:	Environment, ecology
Aims of project:	In 2006, a group of young Bolivian environmental professionals decided to create an institution that would respond to the big environmental challenges in the country. The greek term Gaia evokes the Lovelock's theory that indicates that Earth is alive. In the same complementary way, the term Pacha that comes from native languages such as Quechua and Aymara, is part of the more complete term Pachamama. Pachamama means "Mother Earth". In consequence, Gaia Pacha is a combination of modern theory and a legacy of ancient wisdom that expresses pretty much the same. That our Mother Earth is alive explained by two different cosmo-visions that complement perfectly each other.
Activities of project:	Gaia Pacha's efforts are addressed to four dimensions that we believe, combined, can ensure sustainability in different levels. These working areas are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Research & Technology • Training & Education • Environmental Policy • Conservation & Ecosystems Restoration
Community Context:	Gaia Pacha focuses on environmental awareness, protection and sustainability of communities at risk that their resources further reduce the dangerous effects of environmental degradation.
